

Of prayer books I have many kinds
But really I've no need,
For in the dimples of her face
I see only my creed.
What need for holy days to trace
Since Myrtice fills my days with grace?

By Wednesday I know she'll be
Demure and penitent;
And I can hear her sorrowing
For sinners all through Lent.
But why should I feel grief within,
Since Myrtice sorrows for my sin?

It is often remarked that in spite of the great amount of musical talent within the city, the people of Salt Lake are quite unappreciative of good music. This is always shown to be a mistake when a really good company of artists comes to the town. The Melba affair was sufficient proof to the contrary, and the coming of the Corried people is already awaited with keen expectation. The event set for March 4 will be one of the musical life of the state, as well as of the city, and the people who are already making preparations to attend the big concert would indicate that music is appreciated in Salt Lake.

With the advent of Lent there will be a decided tendency not to abstain from the joys of the world, the flesh and the devil. Oh, dear, no—but to keep a more stringent rein on one's friends and never to let the right hand know how many times the left one plays bridge. Still, if two or three should organize classes and become seekers after wisdom in the line of bridge, surely that would be penance enough.

Evidently some one is planning a "pleasant surprise" for the men of the University club, as no one of them has any intention of doing stunts before Wednesday morning.

There was an exciting void at the last hop at Fort Douglas, and it was not due to the absence of a man, either. It was caused entirely, so it is claimed, by the departure of a through train Wednesday morning last. The train bore away a certain blue-eyed damsel who had filled a large sphere.

PROVO.

The Happy Hour club were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stoker at their home on First South Wednesday. Sixty-three was played, and after a series of games prizes were awarded to Mrs. E. T. Jones and Mr. John Wilson for having won the most gamelike consolation prizes were given Mrs. Charles Snyder and Mrs. W. E. Stoker. After refreshments had been served, a very interesting drawing game was introduced during the progress of which much merriment prevailed. Mrs. Hyrum Pensen won first prize and Mrs. Beverly Harper second prize.

Miss Mary Nuttall entertained a few friends at dinner Friday, in honor of her sister, Mrs. M. M. Warner, of Salt Lake. Another of those "swell" dancing parties was given Wednesday evening in the social hall, by the young men as a compliment to the young ladies who so royally entertained them the previous week. The hosts were Messrs. Morris Gray, Don Alexander, Frank Graham, Frank Alexander, Merle Taylor, Alma Boardman, Ephraim Cliff and Sam Thomas. The boys certainly did themselves proud in the artistic manner in which the hall was decorated. White and green were the colors used and it is doubtful if the hall ever presented a more picturesque view than it did on this occasion with its happy throng of dancers. There were about 125 guests present. Punch was served from neatly arranged alcoves. The pupils of the B. Y. university from the Alpine stake entertained at the gymnasium hall Thursday evening in honor of the presidency of that stake.
